

VOLUME LIII. TWO SENATORS AGAINST BILL Senators Bulkeley, Of Connecticut, And Gore, Of Oklahoma, Talk In Senate Today. GORE IS THE MOST OPTIMISTIC Sees Great Future For The Country--Opposed To Tariff Measure As A Whole, Because It Favors The Monopolies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, D. C., June 15.—Once more the echoes of the proposed change in the Philippine tariff provisions held the center of attraction in the United States Senate and from present indications the end has not yet come and the debate on this question promises to prove a serious stumbling block to those who hoped for a speedy adjournment.

Starts at Once

The debate began at ten o'clock, when the senate convened in regular session. In the opinion of the Senators who object particularly to the clauses which deal with the Philippine tobacco, it will not be of any benefit materially to the Philippine grower, as he can not expect to compete with the American grower, owing to the inferior quality of the Philippine tobacco grown.

Bulkeley Talks

Senator Bulkeley of Connecticut was the principal speaker opposed to the measure and he insisted that the passage of the measure as it now stands would be working a great injury upon the Philippine and the islands of Guam and Tutuila, rather than any benefit to them or their people.

Owen's Speech

Charles that the masters of monopoly in the United States were in control; that the tariff bill was written to serve their purpose to make the rich richer and the poor poorer, and to benefit the few at the expense of the many. Senator Owen today held the attention of the senate for several hours with a speech replete with denunciation of the republican protective tariff policy and of the majority members of the finance committee. Responsibility for the present of the country he laid at the door of "the recent giant monopolies, engendered and sheltered by the prohibitive tariff."

Opposes Bill

Senator Owen opposed the bill in its entirety because he said it was contrary to the will of the American people. "When I point out the unavoidable effect of extreme poverty as the necessary complement of unlimited wealth in the hands of the few accumulated under the shelter of the law," he declared, "I wish it distinctly understood that the dark picture of human misery which the truth compels me to portray breathes from a no spirit of pessimism, because I am an optimist. I recognize the immediate dawn of better things and an early remedy."

Lowers Wages

Senator Owen also charged that the high tariff had lowered the wages of American workmen. He devoted considerable thought to this question, furnishing innumerable statistics to support his contention. "The monopolist," he said, "can not and does not consume his profits. So that the result is that the capital of monopoly is rolling up like a huge snowball, picking up every opportunity offered by God to mankind in our natural resources, and labor, the creator of wealth, languishes and grows weaker, the creature of wealth grows stronger and exercises a natural but unrestrained appetite by 'acquiring' the title to every visible and invisible resource."

Favors Organization

He favored the growing organization of workmen. Monopolies, he said, preferred unorganized labor; "They prefer that labor should be helpless and incapable of making effective any demand for its comfort or convenience or for its rights." He maintained that the law should firmly and unhesitatingly demand and require of labor, organized or unorganized, strict obedience to the law, "but it should also demand and require of monopoly, consideration and decent treatment of labor and its rights both as producer and consumer."

Nelson's Amendment

Senator Nelson today introduced an amendment to the tariff bill providing for the submission to the several states of the question of amending the constitution of the United States, so as to give Congress the right to levy a tax on incomes.

CAROLINA TEACHERS IN MOREHEAD CITY

Many Persons of Note Will Address Gathering of Instructors—Fine Programs Planned.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Morehead City, N. C., June 15.—With Governor Kitchin, State Superintendent Eggleston and other notable on the program, the teachers of the state, members of the North Carolina Teachers' association, assembled here today for what promises to be the most successful meeting ever held by the association. The formal opening of the convention takes place this evening, with Governor Kitchin as the chief speaker.

Tomorrow morning the regular program of papers, addresses and discussions on educational problems will be taken up. President Louis Smith of Davidson college, President J. I. Foust of the State Normal and Industrial College for Women, Professor M. C. B. Noble of the University of North Carolina, and Superintendent J. C. Griffin of Salisbury are scheduled among the speakers.

MOVEMENT TO UNITE ALL PRESBYTERIANS

International Session Beginning In New York City Will Seek Union Of Various Branches.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, June 15.—Presbyterians from all over the world are attending the international convention of the Presbyterian church which opened today at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church. The delegates number more than three hundred and they represent among them almost every denomination and 25,000,000 members.

Included among those present are some of the most distinguished theologians and ecclesiastical in the world. The presiding officer is Dr. Oswald Dykes, of Cambridge, England. Other noted delegates from abroad are Sir Alexander Simpson, late Dean of the faculty of the Medical College of the University of Edinburgh; Dr. J. Campbell Gibson, Moderator of the Presbyterian church of England; the Rev. Dr. James Orr, a leading theologian of the University of Cambridge; Dr. J. H. Stevenson of Edinburgh, a nephew of Robert Louis Stevenson; Rev. Dr. Laws, Moderator of the United Free church of Scotland; Sir Samuel Chisholm, former Lord Mayor of Glasgow; Rev. Charles Merle D'Aubigne of Paris and Rev. Chevalier Muston of Italy.

Among the American delegates who are on the program for addresses are Governor Hoke Smith of Georgia, President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton University; President James D. Moffatt of Washington and Jefferson College; Rev. Samuel J. Smith of the University of Chicago; Rev. Frederick H. DuVal, former Moderator of the Presbyterian church in Canada; Rev. Ira Landrith of Nashville, and Rev. Dr. William H. Roberts, moderator of the northern Presbyterian general assembly.

The local Presbyterians have made elaborate preparations for entertaining the delegates. The Presbyterian Alliance, as the gathering is commonly called, is not a legislative body. Its work is to discuss church and religious questions, and while it has no legislative functions its recommendations carry great weight with the governing bodies of the separate denominations.

The sessions of the present meeting will continue ten days. One of the most vital questions to be considered when the convention gets in full swing will be the uniting of the various branches of the Presbyterian church into one strong body. This problem has been broached at various conventions, but, according to views expressed by some of the leading delegates today, the question is to come up in more concrete form at this meeting.

Immigration will be another important matter to receive the attention of the convention. The gathering will also take up civic and social problems, and there will be discourses on these by clergymen and laymen from all over the world.

"COPS" IN ANNUAL MEETING IN BUFFALO

International Association of Police Chiefs Discuss Matters of Interest In Sessions.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Buffalo, N. Y., June 15.—The sixteenth annual convention of the International association of Chiefs of Police was called to order here today by the president, Major Richard Sylvester, of Washington, D. C. Chiefs of police to the number of 200, representing metropolitan cities of the United States and Canada, are in attendance.

The association expects to be in session five days. The exclusion of undesirable immigrants, improved identification methods, motor patrol wagons, juvenile offenders, and the uniformity of police attire are among the matters to receive attention. Much interest is manifested in the selection of a new president, Major Sylvester, who has been the head of the association for ten years, has declined to stand for re-election.

JURY BRINGS TWO MORE INDICTMENTS

Same Charges Against United Copper Co. Men as Against Their Attorney.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, June 15.—The federal grand jury handed down indictments today against P. Augustus Holze, head of the United Copper company; Arthur H. Helze and Sanford Robinson, Helze's counsel, charging conspiracy in splitting away the books of the company while it was under federal scrutiny.

SPARTA SUSPECT IN JANESVILLE TOILS?

Police Believed That Vagranti, John Smith Was James Clearmont, Who Was Wanted For Bank Robbery.

That the man who pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy in municipal court yesterday under the name of John Smith was in reality James Clearmont who, while awaiting trial for bank burglary, sawed his way out of the Monroe county jail at Sparta, in company with James Randle, on the night of June 2, was the belief of the local police department. The picture and description sent to the Janesville office were the basis of this conjecture. A reward of $100 was offered for Clearmont's capture and if John Smith had proved to be the man, Officer Sam Brown, who made the arrest Saturday evening, he might have received the money. Sheriff Henry of Monroe county, however, at all doubts at first by declaring the prisoner was not Clearmont when he saw him in the jail here this afternoon.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC TRAIN OVERTURNED

All of Coaches but a Sleeper Go Over In Wreck In Mexico—Several Mexicans Injured.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] El Paso, Texas, June 15.—A passenger train on the Guaymas branch of the Southern Pacific road was wrecked last night near Hermosillo, Mexico. The conductor and sixteen passengers are reported as seriously injured. All the coaches except the sleeper turned over.

As far as can be learned all the injured, with the exception of the conductor, are Mexicans. None are seriously hurt.

JUNE WEDDING AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Miss Mary Finneran of This City And John Wegman of St. Charles, Minnesota.

This morning at St. Mary's church Miss Mary Finneran of this city was united in marriage to John Wegman of St. Charles, Minn. The nuptials were performed by Rev. W. A. Goebel in the presence of a large company of friends and relatives. Miss Sarah Finneran, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Frank Finneran, a brother, acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Wegman leave Wednesday on a western trip. After July 1, they will make their home in Janesville. The young couple were the recipients of many handsome gifts from their friends, who extend to them the best of wishes.

AMERICANS MAY BE ALLOWED A CHANCE

China Will Refuse Foreign Loan To Build Railroad In That Country.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Peking, June 15.—Acting on representations made by American Charge d'Affaires Focher, China has agreed not to ratify the loan of $27,500,000 from British, German and French bankers for the construction of the Hankow-Szechwan railroad. It is expected the refusal will result in arrangements being made for American participation in the loan.

ELKS ENTERTAINED IN A ROYAL MANNER

Calumet, Mich. Welcomes State Convention of Fraternal Lodge to the City.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Calumet, Mich., June 15.—Hundreds of Elks are here from every prominent city in Michigan to attend the annual state convention of the order. Today was given over to the reception of the visitors, who found the local arrangements for their entertainment to be of the most elaborate character. Decorations of purple and white, the official colors of the Elks, adorn many of the buildings of the city.

Tomorrow there will be a grand parade, in which it is expected more than 1,000 Elks will participate. The business sessions will be held in the Red Jacket town hall. Features of the entertainment program include a banquet and ball, a visit to the Calumet and Hecla mines, and concerts and automobile rides for the visiting ladies.

TRY ASSASSINATION OF MAYOR OF CITY

Bottle of Kerosene All Affre Thrown Into Home of Bellefontaine, Ohio, Mayor.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Bellefontaine, Ohio, June 15.—What is believed to have been an attempt to assassinate Mayor William R. Niven and burn his residence was made early today when a burning bottle filled with kerosene was thrown through a large plate glass window of his house. The resulting fire was quickly extinguished. The mayor was ejected on the "dry" ticket two years ago.

NEWSPAPER WRITER HAS MANY TROUBLES

Broughten Brandenburg Brought To Trial For Political Article Supposedly "Faked."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, June 15.—The case of Broughten Brandenburg, the magazine writer, was called for trial today in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court. The charge upon which Brandenburg is to be tried is one of grand larceny in the second degree. The charge hinges upon the sale by Brandenburg to a New York newspaper of an article purporting to have been written and signed by the late Grover Cleveland, but which, it was charged, was not genuine.

The published article caused a lot of talk in the heat of the recent presidential campaign, as the substance of it consisted of Mr. Cleveland's alleged opinion why Mr. Taft should be elected to the presidency. Brandenburg, it is said, received $500 from the newspaper for the story. Upon its publication doubts were expressed by friends and associates of the late President as the genuineness of the article. An investigation was started and the result was that Brandenburg was indicted. When the case was first called for trial last February it was found that Brandenburg had faked his ball and left the city. Subsequently he was found in San Francisco and returned to New York for trial. In the meanwhile his troubles were added to by his connection with the Calumet divorce case, in St. Louis, in which Mr. Calumet obtained a divorce from his wife naming Brandenburg as co-respondent.

DISCOVERED PLOT TO OVERTHROW CUBA AND VENEZUELA

Gen. Masso Parra said to be head of conspiracy.

Havana.—The tolls of the secret police are fast gathering into their net the leaders of a conspiracy which for a time threatened to overthrow Cuba and Venezuela. The plot was discovered by Chief Senior Ugarriz of the secret police, who communicated the fact to the secretary of the government, Alherdi. It is understood that the revolt will extend beyond the limits of the new republic into the South American but of Venezuela.

Masso Parra was convicted of conspiring against the provisional government last year and sentenced to three years' imprisonment, but later was released under the decree of amnesty.

It is thought that the plot has been hatched in the end and no unfortunate results will occur.

The Youngster
and the Educator's

THE mission of the Educator shoe is to make a nation of men and women to whom walking will be a pleasure, and with whom perfect feet will be the rule rather than the exception.

COULD parents be brought to realize the importance of starting the child's foot right there would be little or no suffering in later life from foot blemishes.

AS nature forms the child's foot each toe lies flat and straight, thus providing the human foot with the power to balance the body, and the spring to make walking easy.

UNFORTUNATELY, few children reach maturity without cramped, pinched and ill-shaped feet. This is usually caused by the shoes sold by unscientific shoemen to thoughtless parents.

THE EDUCATOR, as its name implies, is designed by students of the human foot to allow the bones and muscles to grow in the shape that nature intended.

Wise Indians.
Canadian authorities say that an Indian kills with the greatest judgment and discretion. Unlike the white hunter, the Indian needs no game laws. He understands that if the game is to last he must kill only enough for his needs. He will kill for food and for his belt, but only when the latter is at its best. He never kills for sport alone, and will not destroy a female animal at the breeding season.—Fair News.

MINSTREL SHOW A BIG SUCCESS

ELKS' PERFORMANCE EXCEEDED ALL EXPECTATIONS.

BUSINESS MEN AS STARS

In Elizabethan, Black-face, and Acrobatic Stunts Qualified in Every Instance—Large Audience Present.

Those who feared that a successful amateur minstrel show was not to be expected after less than a week of rehearsals, and went to the theatre last evening, chanting thus and so in unison, remained to applaud one of the best local talent performances, taken all in all, that has ever been given in the Janesville boards. From the standpoint of elaborate scenic settings, rich color schemes, and variety and elegance in the immense array of trim, now snappy costumes—current and complete to the minutest detail—it has never been equalled. Prof. S. A. Grubbs came here recommended as a "wizard director," possessed of enough psychology and patience to run a girls' boarding school and acquainted with every nook and corner and angle of "the business," but none of the press notices have done him justice. In a single day, if he ever took it into his head to do so, he could convert any given area of raw timber into a minstrel show and put a creditable performance across the footlights. And Janesville Lodge No. 254, B. P. O. E., under whose auspices the performance was given scored another big success in the entertainment line.

The Grand Entry
The curtain rises upon the light hangings of a room of the Court of Monarchs, with the floor of chairs in their most white "hibas and tuckers" in the immediate foreground. Invisible singers whistle a lively melody—then the entry of the Royal Choir, resplendent in the pink and blue satin costumes, white wigs, and the faces and turbans of the Elizabethan days, begins. The transformation in appearance and the courtly grace of the choristers, as they descend the stairway in pairs, constitutes a distinct sensation in every instance.

They make their bows and seat themselves in the following order:

E. V. Whitton, H. W. McNamara, E. E. Birch, Fred Baker, William Bush, A. E. Drotzhing, Warren Skelly, P. J. Mount, G. C. Olin, Thos. Welch, Otto Muenchow, F. C. Seaville, John Murphy, August Puls, R. A. Piller, Don Miller, Chas. Myers, Ronald Arie, "Andy" Gibbons, John Baumann, Geo. Hatch, Laurence Thilo, William Poonichen and Chas. Putnam.

The Interlocutor, Prof. Grubbs, takes his place in the center of the group. Now comes the first installment of the ten "Men Behind the Pan"—black-faced, garbed in gaudy trousers, long black coats with white silk linings, blue hats, and all the other "standard" Ham-Trope paraphernalia. They are prancing through the cakewalk and jingling the tambourines like "professionals" and who'd have thought it?—Geo. D. Simpson, Frank Snyder, Amos Rohberg, John C. Nichols, Louis Levy, R. H. Van Cleave, William McNeil, and Dr. Walter D. Morrill! Willie, you look like a silk embroidered shadow of a dark deed and the folks will never know you now! Opening song, "The Minstrel Kings," with a tremendous duet, and the show is on!

Songs Alleged and Otherwise
William McNeil, with a catchy little dance between, commits perjury and lifts the comic song, "I'm a Man by Married Man," right over the goal posts on the first kick-off. Rooster of "Garden Saus" is tossed upon the stage! Terrific fusillade of canned humor by the Meers, Levy and Van Cleave. Amos Rohberg seizes all hearts with the beautiful ballad, "Keep a Little Faith in Your Heart for Me," and men dancing in two circles at the finish. More vegetable! J. C. Nichols engages in an altercation with the interlocutor and Geo. Simpson tells a "choice one." Louis Levy sends the big scream, "I'm the Man," bounding across the footlights and wants to sing it all over again on the encore. End men march and pull the finger of scorn. Large cluster of begonia presented to Mr. Levy. "Doc" Morrill engages in a coring bit of play with the interlocutor. "Billy" McNeil unfolds the melancholy tragedy of the blind man, Frank Snyder sings a rude, emphatic mule song, "Somebody Lied." Business by end men. Amos Rohberg comes to bat with a bit of sparkling repartee. "Doc" Morrill plautively sings "Don't Take Me Home." Applause! Bringing-in-the-sheaves pantomime by the end men. Frank Snyder is roused from a dream and throws out a few laugh-catchers. "Pat" Carlo and "Pete" Myers, billed as "the two principal comedians" and attired in to kill, bound into the arena. Mr. Carlo takes the house by storm with "I Wish I Was a Little Bird." Mr. Myers engages in a mirth-provoking dog and fat sister dialogue with the ring-master, George L. Hatch sings the beautiful ballad, "Courage" and sings it beautifully. Mr. Carlo tells the story "An Old Sweetheart of Mine." Comedy contingent and entire company in the ragtime song "On a Monkey Honey-moon." Curtain.

Splendid Olio
The "Elksoles" moving pictures proved a pleasant diversion during the intermission and then the olio portion of the program was opened. In the opinion of many it had the advantage "first part" backed clear off the board. There wasn't a single dull moment.

Prof. Dullos performed a series of tricks that amazed and electrified until "given away" by a troublesome, able-minded specter called "Willie." The materializing, double individuality, cabinet feat—with Fred M. Morrill as the "double"—which closed the act, was something immense.

"Capt." J. H. Cullen made the audience sit with bated breath while he outclassed the professionals in a marvellous gun-splashing performance.

Then came the infatigable Harry McClure, bedecked in a rig-out calculated to make angels weep, dancing defiantly, and "taking off" the gun splasher with his little red parasol. His monologue, crammed to the gills with local hits, started a facial ripple which soon became a boiling sea of merriment dashing over the footlights and interrupting him every other minute. He danced a blend of the "Merry Widow" and every other figure and jig invented since Madam Torghele first set up the burlesque, and when he invoked the Muse of song there was simply nothing to it. He received the biggest individual "hand" of the evening and deserved it.

Balanced on a Nose
In diabolical make-ups which nearly paralyzed their immediate relatives and friends, the knotty-muscled Sandows—George C. Olin and Harold Schwartz—next took the center of the limelight and began to do things with thousand-pound and ten weights which caused everybody to sit up and take notice. They proceeded with the deliberation and perfect self confidence of the pink-lighted circus acrobats they were, and the act ended with a terrific climax where the little and supple Olin threw himself skyward and balanced himself with a single finger on the giant Schwartz's nose.

Song and Dance
"The Ebony and Ivory in Song and Dance," with sixteen people, was the largest amateur feature of the kind ever attempted here. The grace and gallantry and vim which William Poonichen, Laurence Thilo and other "Boles" injected into their dancing evoked a storm of applause. Those who took part were: Belle—William Poonichen, John Murphy, Charles Snyder, August Puls, Ronald Arie, Benjamin Miller, Ed. Canniff, Laurence Thilo; Beaux—Amos Rohberg, Louis Levy, P. E. Birch, J. C. Nichols, W. D. Morrill, Frank Snyder, R. C. Schloter, William McNeil.

At the Lodge Rooms
Following the performance, the Elks and their ladies and friends, including all who took part in the show, repaired to the lodge rooms where a delicious buffet luncheon was served under the direction of Chas. Putnam and the other members of the house committee.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.
Janesville, June 14, 1900.—At a meeting of the Janesville Leaf Tobacco Merchants Association the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father, in His infinite wisdom, to call unto Himself our former member and friend, Levi B. Carlo; and

Whereas, The death of Levi B. Carlo has removed from our midst a true, honored and respected member, whose principal characteristics were his spotless integrity, his unflinching industry, his excellent judgment, and his broad and comprehensive conception of an honorable life; and

Whereas, Our many years of association with him as a leaf dealer demand that our organization testify to the worth and appreciation of the privilege, which has been accorded us, of having been permitted to know and to associate with him; and

Resolved, That the death of Mr. Carlo is a personal loss to each member of this Association, to the tobacco trade in the state, and to the community of which he was a foremost citizen; therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of Levi B. Carlo the Janesville Leaf Tobacco Merchants Association has lost a most valued member, a staunch friend and a most able counselor, whose death we mourn, and bow in humble submission to the will of Almighty God in removing from us our friend and fellow merchant; and

Resolved, That we extend to the family of our deceased friend our heartfelt sympathy in this their loss; and

Resolved, That an engrossed copy of these resolutions be presented to the family, and that they may be spread upon the minutes and published in the daily and trade papers.

SAMUEL GRUNDY, President.

What Kind of an "Office?"

Once upon a time a child who was asked on an examination paper to define a mountain range replied: "A large-sized cook stove." The same method of reasoning seems to go with older growth. A recent examination paper at the Sheffield Scientific school at Yale contained the question: "What is the office of the gastric juices?" And the answer on one paper read: "The stomach."—Everybody's Magazine.

MOURN THE LOSS OF A LEADING CITIZEN

Clinton Bereaved at Death of "Uncle Harry" Colgrove Who Passed Away Monday.

(Special to the Gazette.)
(Clinton, June 15.—) H. H. Colgrove, familiarly known to all, old and young, as "Uncle Harry," was found dead in bed this morning by his sister, Mrs. J. W. De Wolfe, with whom he had been making his home all winter.

Mr. Colgrove has been very feeble all winter, some days spending considerable time in bed. When, late this morning, no sign of him appeared, Mrs. De Wolfe went into his room to see when he wanted to get up and found he had quietly passed to the other land two or three hours before. Although in feeble health, his sudden demise was a shock to the community. He was a very kindly, lovable gentleman of the old New York stock exchange, over 80 years old, tall, spare and straight as an Indian with a wonderfully powerful voice which was ever kindly toned to all. He has been a resident of Clinton for about 53 or 54 years. He has one daughter living at Eau Claire, Wis., and three sisters, Mrs. E. C. Cook of New York state; Mrs. E. G. Crandall of Oshkosh, and Mrs. J. W. De Wolfe of this place.

For many years he was engaged in the harness business, selling out a few years ago and since then has divided his time in leisure between his daughter at Eau Claire and his sister and children here. He was a staunch democrat and almost a life-long member of the Methodist church. No funeral arrangements have as yet been made pending word from his daughter.

Curtis H. Treat of the Chicago Commercial association spent Saturday and Sunday here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Treat, corner Pleasant street and Milwaukee Ave. C. P. Drake and wife, and Charles McCommons are at Delavan lake 53, a week at their cottage on the Assembly grounds.

Clinton's celebrated brass band of forty pieces, more or less, has come to the aid and under the official leadership of Albert Nussbaum are practicing diligently.

It looks as if our 4th of July celebration was not going to materialize very handsomely as money does not come up fast enough to warrant any elaborate efforts. What the final result will be has not been fully determined.

Miss Alma Parks spent Sunday at her home in Delavan.

Mrs. J. W. Herron returned home from a month's stay in Milwaukee, accompanied by Mr. Herron's sister, Mrs. A. C. Vedder and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hollister of Madison spent Sunday here the guest of Miss Mary Sherman.

Miss Helen Benson arrived here Monday morning to visit her father, Mr. R. N. Benson, and her sister, Mrs. James Selkirk and family.

Miss Mollie Klingholtz arrived Monday morning to visit friends.

Miss Helen Edwards arrived home from Phoenix, Ariz., Monday night.

Miss David Adams, who is 92 years old, is very poorly but is reported a little better this morning.

Miss Helen Helmer arrived home Monday from Medford where she has been teaching.

Miss Alice Moehlenpach of Joliet, Ill., spent Sunday here the guest of her brother, Hon. H. A. Moehlenpach and family.

Miss Lola Latta arrived home Saturday from Marshfield, Wis., where she has been teaching the past year.

A committee of three from the Board of directors of the Deloit Farmer Mutual Telephone Co. were here Monday afternoon in conference with the directors of the Clinton Telephone company relative to matters in which both companies are interested, also regarding the selling of the Clinton line to the Deloit company that part of their system which overlaps into their territory. A harmonious and friendly meeting, productive of much mutual good and better understanding between the companies was the result.

Chief of Police Almond Baldwin left Monday night at midnight for the Department Encampment of G. A. R. veterans, held this year at Eau Claire. He will represent Elmer Tallman Post No. 70.

Flag day was not as fittingly observed as it should have been by the citizens of Clinton. Although many flags were hung to the breeze not a fraction of the homes and business houses showed the love for the dear old flag as they should have done.

The Twentieth Century club held their last meeting Monday night at the beautiful country home of Mrs. L. L. Simmons. It being a privilege night the committee consisting of Mrs. L. L. Simmons, president; Mrs. Clyde McGee, Mrs. W. P. Woolston, and Mrs. D. K. Latta decided to have the meeting in the form of a six o'clock tea, hence all members were requested to be present at six o'clock. Although on privilege nights the committee keep their plans a secret the hour of meeting gave the ladies a strong scent as to what to expect, so fifty or more husbands and families were left supperless while the ladies gathered at their club. The tea was served in two courses which were very tempting, dainty and elegant. Place cards were at each plate and on the reverse side of the cards each lady found an appropriate verse to be given in response to roll call. The decorations were in yellow and white and at each place was a beautiful miniature silk flag on a large brass pin six or seven inches long, suggesting very nicely that it was Flag day. After the usual tables were removed the club was called to order for business, which included the election of officers for the next year, the result being as follows: Miss Jennie Northrup, president; Mrs. George Minor, vice-president; Mrs. F. W. Herron, secretary; and Mrs. W. B. Northway, treasurer; Mrs. L. L. Simmons, chairman of program committee. After the business meeting was over the balance of the evening, until very late, was given over to a social time and the hum of about sixty voices was the swarming of many thousands and Mrs. Clinton is very proud of this Woman's club.

Chas. McCommons, entertained relatives from Deloit on Saturday.

Children's day was very fittingly observed Sunday at the Congregational church and Sunday school. The morning worship was given over to the little folks who presented to the large congregation present a very fine program consisting of songs, recitations and marches, followed by a short sermon for little folks by Rev. Clyde McGee.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Warner and son, Charles, arrived here Sunday from St. John Park, Fla., to spend the summer. They report the Clinton people whom they left there as well and happy.

Mrs. John Donkin is very low at her home, corner East and Cross streets, with very little hopes of her living the day out.

Egg with Two Shells.

One of the hens belonging to Mrs. William Childs last week laid an egg which was a curiosity. In long circumference it measured nine inches; in short circumference, seven inches. After keeping the egg for several days, Mrs. Childs broke the shell, when to her surprise she found on the inside another egg well developed with a hard shell. The inclosed egg was as large as an ordinary egg, the space between it and the outer shell being filled with the natural contents, the yolk and white of the egg.—Danville American.

Diversion of Energy.

Mrs. Partington was trying to sweep back the Atlantic with a broom. "Don't discourage her," begged her husband; "it distracts her attention from the house." Thus we learn even the impossible has its uses.

ENJOY YOURSELF

Get away from the city with its noise and grime, go where you can commune with nature and enjoy yourself to the utmost. The scenery up the river at this time of the year is most beautiful. There Dame Nature has been most lavish in spreading spots, which appeal to the lover of natural beauty. There, also, will the lover of the pleasurable art find pleasure at his command; just now they are biting fine. The pleasures of which we have been speaking can best be seen and enjoyed with one of our boats, which are always in the best of condition. Our rates are not high for the service we render—you will find it the best. Boats will be held on orders received in advance.

WATERED STOCK

The impression prevails to large extent that every new issue of stock by a corporation, especially if it be a railroad, represents nothing in the way of value, but is water pure and simple, "a million cut" and distributed for the profit and entertainment of corrupt officials.

When stocks and bonds depreciate in value as they did during the recent panic, no sympathy is expressed for the losers, for the water is simply being "squeezed out" and there is no occasion to mourn.

This nonsensical doctrine has been exploited so persistently by reform writers and speakers. In appeals to prejudice and ignorance that effects are apparent and in several states including Wisconsin, laws have been enacted compelling corporations to state how money realized from new stock issues is to be spent, and yet socialists continue to clamor for government ownership when the people already have government control without a dollar invested. The water and the railroads are always fruitful topics for discussion, because they never talk back, and the only equipment necessary is a tongue and the ability to wag it.

While the weather continues to do business without annoyance the railroads suffer, and they are not entitled to very much sympathy, because until recently they have refused to take the public into their confidence, and even now their publicity bureau is so poorly equipped that the general public know but little about it.

The literature sent out contains much valuable information, but the policy adopted is as destitute of common-sense as the methods of advertising adopted by physicians who publish their announcements in medical journals.

W. L. Hoos, vice-president of the Toledo, St. Louis and Western, and the Chicago and Alton railway companies, recently addressed the Transportation association of Milwaukee.

The address sparked with facts on which the general public is not informed, and which, if understood, would dispel a great deal of prejudice and ignorance against railroad companies, but no effort is made to get it before the public, except to send copies of it to the press, to be consigned to the waste basket. One paragraph on watered stock reads:

"There is more 'water' in the stock of the average American farm today than there is in the stock of the average American railroad. Take a highly cultivated Illinois farm, and there are thousands of them worth all the way from $150 to $200 per acre. Does any sane man claim that the value is represented by the original cost of the land, plus the labor and improvements that the owner has put upon it? A great percentage of that value comes from its proximity to good market towns, the railroad that crosses it adds to its value, so does the interurban road, the telephone and the rural free delivery. And it is right that they should, for they are actual, tangible values, just as real as the soil itself, although not as visible.

"There are just as real values in the railroads which even some senators not altogether unconnected with your own state seemingly fail to realize. Chicago has twenty-four railroads. Only six have depots of their own. The rest enter through leases and trackage rights. The original roads secured their entry into the city for next to nothing. Many of those $200 per acre farms cost $1.25 per acre. Circumstances have added many hundred per cent to that original cost. So with the value of the terminal facilities of the railroads in the great cities. This is but one item of the actual value of the roads as they stand today. With values as they stand today it is a safe proposition, and I make the statement without fear of successful contradiction from any authoritative source, that the roads of America today could not be duplicated for the total amount of all their outstanding stocks and bonds. And anyone who believes that railroad securities are a source of untold wealth to those who hold them can secure all of them that he may desire at reasonable rates. These are plain truths that the wayfarer man, even though he be a politician, may understand."

Any fair-minded man will admit that these statements are true. Age and equipment add to the value of railroad property and warrant bond issues from time to time to meet new outlays.

The Chicago and North-Western company is now building a terminal station in Chicago at a cost of $20,000,000. This means that every mile of track over the entire system will increase in value. Stock and bond issues are to meet these betterment expenses by increasing capital and they never represent water unless issued as dividends.

The railroad companies could well afford to publish Mr. Hoos' address in every paper in the land, and follow it up with a lot of this kind of publicity. People are inclined to be fair when they understand situations.

The electric lights in the Auditorium building at Omaha were turned on the other night by a wireless current from the station at Fort Omaha, six miles away. This is a new discovery in the wireless field, and the industry is still in its infancy.

Professor George Burman Foster of the University of Chicago is still a Baptist, but not a very good one, according to the investigation held yesterday.

For a one-night stand and a seven-day organization the minstrel show was good and the people who paid their dollar had a dollar's worth of fun.

Things are moving along so quietly at the White house that the people hardly realize that they have a president. "It was not over this."

'Uncle Walt' of Emporia

By WALT MASON
(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthews Adams.)

UNCLE WALT OF EMPORIA.....
We all have read of Holland's heir, that babe with azure eyes, and cheeks and brow so wondrous fair—she takes the beauty prize; and all these tales that come by PRINCE HENRY were as interesting and nice, but how about the baby's sire? Prince Henry cuts no ice. We read of Wilhelm's joy, that lasts from sun to sun; although she hoped to raise a boy, a girl is better'n none; we hear of many a titled dame, of doctors—but alas! The father isn't in the game; Prince Henry cuts no grass. We read of princes who have sprung their blessings on the child; we hear of songs the people sing, with fervor deep and wild; in Holland there is naught but peace, the land is bright and gay, and everything is slick as grease, but Henry bales no hay. With us the father always stars, when the little ones are born; he passes round the fat cigars, and gaily toots his horn; with bounding and triumphant face, he tours the neighborhood; but Holland is another place, and Henry saws no wood.

Of High Degree.
A little girl of old New York descent, in whose presence the family glories were often talked about, was overheard lately rebuking her pet kitten. Holding pussy by her fore paws, and looking her full in the face, she remarked: "I'm ashamed of you, Kitty, for being so naughty, and just think, your grandmother was a Maltese!"

TO MEMORY.
Sweet memory, the power that lends me now,
Along the years of happiness and pain;
I love thee for the echoes brought back again,
The flight at school, the sweetheart's murmured vow;
Long days of toil I spent behind the plow,
The golden hours of sunshine and the rain;
My boyhood joys, the tears I shed in vain—
And sorrows that left furrows in my brow!

For now with wiser judgment I can see
That I was wrong; the old school-mate was right;
I'm glad to have my faith in him returned;
The faults I laid to others fall on me—
And sorrow's darkness flees before the light
That beams in thy sweet lessons I have learned.

Heart-to-Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

THE HAPPY SMILE.

"Well, what do you think of a street car company that will give its patrons three rides and two walks all for a nickel?"

He was the kind who carries sunshine wherever he goes, and he beamed amiably from under his umbrella at a crowd of disgruntled passengers waiting in the rain.

The company was fixing the track, and the passengers had changed cars twice and were waiting for one of the forlorn little "dinkies" that was to make the last lap of the journey into the city.

"Here comes the limited!" shouted the man with the happy smile as the little one-truck car came bumping in. "Get your Pullman sections reserved."

Everybody smiled.

Only one disgruntled woman, whose hat was being ruined by the rain, snapped out, "Ain't some-people the born fools?" But the passengers looked at the jolly man, whose very presence radiated geniality, and were comforted.

You know him—the man with the happy smile.

Everybody knows him.

As he comes swinging down the street there is a nimbus of sunshine about him. He distributes sunshine. And behind him he leaves a trail of brightness.

The man with a happy smile is a magnet.

People get a glimpse at his hearty, jolly face and merry, boyish smile, and the muscles of their faces instantly relax. Before they know it they are smiling his smile after him. And the ripples of gladness go out from him as do the ripples of a pond when a stone is dropped into its sluggish waters.

The man with the happy smile may have his troubles.

He has them.

But he has learned to keep them to himself, so as not to make others unhappy. He just crowds his griefs into the back part of his head, where they can't do much damage, and puts on a smiling front.

On his face is written, as if it were on a signboard, where all can see, the message "Cheer up!"

And that beautiful smile of his, stirring somewhere down in his diaphragm, works itself upward to his chin, and to the wrinkles about his mouth, and then upward to the wrinkles about his eyes.

And when he looks at you with the corners of his mouth pulled back and the dancelike twinkle in his eye—
Lo, the man with the happy smile has chased away your frown!

DAILY DIET HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist.

VALUE OF CHEESE.
Cheese contains all the elements of nutrition, but, like all other animal food products, it is liable to be contaminated by disease-producing germs. Fresh cream cheese, properly prepared, is a safe and nutritious food, though it contains nothing that can not be obtained from nuts and good bread. The vegetarian can get from cheese the albumen and other essential elements of nutrition, which the meat-eater gets from flesh. Cheese combines well with bread, but not with fruits. Toasted cheese is indigestible. Macaroni and cheese form a nutritious nitrogenous food of which one may, however, easily overeat, but the same elements of nutrition are supplied by nuts and bread, and nothing is gained by constantly varying the diet. If one is satisfied to live on a simple ration and enjoy the increased mental, spiritual and physical benefits that accrue.

WIRELESS MESSAGE

Good morning, Sarah. Say, I came over to see if you were going to buy a piano this summer. You know that some time ago I told you I was thinking of buying one. Well, I read Nott's ad in the Gazette about great reduction in prices for high grade pianos, so I thought just for curiosity sake, I would drop in and see what the fellow had—thought it might be a fake. Well, when I got there and fairly opened my eyes on such beautiful pianos, and such lovely tone, and such low prices, I just said to myself I will wait no longer. So I bought right there and then, and had it moved right in and I want you to come over and see it, for it beats anything I have ever seen for ease, tone and price. The price was $400, but he let me have it for $250, just as advertised, and it is a beauty, to say the least. Another thing I found out, Nott told me that he was going to have another sale next Saturday, and when you see what I have bought for $250 you will want one like it. Say, Sarah, when will you be over?

Well, Margaret, I will be over after dinner. Good-bye.

CLASS NIGHT AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

COMMENCEMENT WEEK BEGINS AT HIGH SCHOOL.

A FINE PROGRAM PLANNED

For the Entertainment This Evening Consisting of Music, Speeches and Essays.

This evening at eight o'clock in the auditorium of the high school the annual Class Night exercises of the graduating class will be held. The program for this evening promises to be as interesting as any that have been given in recent years. A variety in the arrangement of the different numbers of the entertainment promises to keep the interest of the auditors from waning. Besides the regular class exercises there will be essays and science talks and experiments. An orchestra selected from the members of the student body will furnish the music.

For many weeks past those who will take part in this evening's program have been gathering data for their work and have been kept busy getting it into shape for delivery tonight. Today the graduates have been rehearsing their speeches and correcting any slight flaws in delivery which have not already been eliminated.

Following the opening number Vincent Koch will welcome the visitors in behalf of the class. Ralph Tippet, an class historian, will relate of the things notable that have occurred since the class first started out. The last will and testament of the departing class to its successors will be read by Earl Seville. Miss Vera Nolan has written the class poem, while Miss Elsie Pihl and Fred Granger will seek to look into the futures of their classmates in the Class Prophecy.

A practical experiment in X-Rays will be given by Raymond Snyder and Glenn Fisher. Other excellent numbers also appear on the program. The entertainment this evening will be as follows:

Music—Soloed, School Orchestra
Musical address—Vincent Koch
Illustrative exercises—X-Rays
Vocal solo—Myrtle Curtis
Class history—Ralph Tippet
Scottish songs—"O' Burns"
Jazz Monkeys and Hattie Turner
Illustrative exercises—Mildred Dunn
Class Will—Earl Seville
Class Poem—Vera Nolan
Music—Orchestra
Representation of national characters—Hazel Welch, Estella Litta and Mildred Sutherland.
Music—Orchestra
Class Prophecy—Elsie Pihl and Fred Granger
Tomorrow evening the class play will be presented and on Thursday evening, Graduation Night, the class will receive the diplomas.

FRUIT JAR HOLDER.

Device Enables One to Handle Receptacles While Hot.

Housewives who have burned their fingers in handling hot fruit jars and have sometimes dropped and broken the jars as a consequence, will appreciate the usefulness of the fruit jar holder invented by a New Jersey man. This holder consists of a flexible band, attached to one end of the band and having projecting pins to engage hooks on the opposite end and so tighten it about the jar that the latter may be easily lifted from one place to another.

FITS ANY SIZE JAR.

With perfect safety to the jar and to the hands of the person carrying it. There is a row of hooks and slots so arranged that the band can be adjusted to any size jar. It is a simple matter both to adjust and detach the holder and the advantages of such a device for use during preserving time will be readily apparent to all women. The holder can be put to other uses when hot receptacles have to be moved about.

INDUSTRY AND MECHANICS

RAT TRAP THAT WILL CATCH.

Rodents Lured Into Dark Passageway and Dropped Into Water or Acid.

A rat trap has recently been invented which is provided with dark runways leading to a bait room in which are trap-doors adapted to open under the weight of the rat and precipitate it in a receptacle containing water or an acid that will quickly kill, says the Scientific American. The inventor finds that rats do not care to frequent places which are exposed to light, and for this reason he has provided darkened runways of a special form which are attractive places for rats to collect in even when there is no bait in the bait room. Furthermore, the arrangement is such that when the rat falls into the receptacle the trap doors swing back to their original position and prevent any noise being heard by other rats that might be attracted to the trap. As illustrated in the accompanying engraving the trap comprises a receptacle, A, with converging sides, over which is placed a hood B, the latter being spaced from the receptacle to form the runways. The side walls of the receptacle, A, are provided with steps, C, which will permit the rats to climb to the top of the trap and enter the bait room by way of the openings at D. The trap doors in this room are indicated at E. Above them is a series of hooks, F, on which the bait is hung. Each door, E, at its inner end is further provided with a bait receptacle, G. The interior of the receptacle, A, is filled with the water or acid which is to destroy the rats that are caught. At the bottom of the receptacle is a siphon, H, which may be opened to permit of emptying the receptacle of the liquid and of the rats that have been caught. The operation of the trap is self-evident.

THE DISTANCE OF THE STARS

Frederic Campbell, So. O., Says There Are Only Three Worlds Nearer Than the Sun.

There are only three worlds that come nearer to us than the sun; those are the moon and the planets Venus and Mercury. Light, traveling at the rate of 186,000 miles a second, requires 8 1/2 minutes to reach us from the sun; the light of Neptune, the most distant planet of our solar system, comes in four hours. But the light of Alpha Centauri, the nearest of the fixed stars, requires four years and four months. Our own sun is a star, only so near as to look large and bright. The distance of Alpha Centauri is 3,300,000 times that of the sun. If we stand at City Hall square, New York city, and let one foot represent the distance of the sun, then 638 miles, or about the distance to Detroit, will represent that of Alpha Centauri.

That is the nearest fixed star, whose light comes in four years and four months. But brilliant in the summer sky we see great Arcturus, whose light, reaching us to-night, left that orb in 1749—27 years before the Declaration of Independence. Yet, if Arcturus were not one of the nearest stars, its distance could not be determined. Most of the celestial bodies are so remote that their distance cannot be guessed, much less measured. Fires Due to Electricity.

About a dozen years ago, M. Richter showed that the mysterious fires in benzine-cleaning establishments are due to electricity, which produces sparks as pieces of wool are drawn from the combustible fluid on cool or dry days, and he found that the sparks could be prevented by adding magnesium oleate—even as little as 0.02 per cent.—to the benzine. The reason of this remarkable effect of the oleate has not been understood. It has now been investigated by G. Just at Karlsruhe, and he finds that the conductivity of the benzine is very slightly increased, this change being sufficient to prevent the accumulation of dangerous electric charges. In pure benzine an electrode kept its charge for minutes while in the diluted oleate solution it refused to take any charge.

AN ELECTRIC PUNKAH, OR FAN

Considered Indispensable in Torrid Climate as Means of Securing Draft of Air.

Readers of Kipling's stories or of any other Anglo-Indian literature need no information regarding the nature and uses of the punkah, which plays so large a part in all narratives of the land of torrid days and breathless nights. The substitution of electric power for sleepy Hindu servants in its propulsion will probably conduce to greater comfort, though it may interfere with some of the romance. Says the Electrical Review and Western Electrician (New York): "The punkah is considered indispensable in the torrid climate, both as a means of securing a draft of air and in keeping insects from disturbing the sleeper. The native servant continually jerks the rope connected with a swinging curtain which hangs from the ceiling. Frequently the native dozes, and the sleeper is then disturbed.

"An electrically driven punkah has been invented, and although this is not the first of its kind, it is said to give satisfaction because it substitutes for the peculiar jerk which is given by the native, and in which the previously devised mechanically driven punkahs were lacking, a similar mechanical movement. The satisfactory service which the hand-worked punkah gives is due to a turn of the fan that the native effects by jerking the rope at each turn. In order to obtain a flick of the curtain similar to that given to the hand-worked fan, the inventors of the new electrically driven punkah have devised an ingenious piece of mechanism.

"A horizontal spindle is made to revolve by an electric motor, and against this spindle there is pressed, by means of a spring, a leather-covered, lath-shaped piece attached to the fan. The motion of the spindle makes the attachment move over as far as the length of its surface, and the impetus carries the attachment and the punkah a considerable distance from the spindle. As soon as the lath-shaped attachment comes back to the revolving spindle in the return swing an extra impetus is suddenly imparted to the swing of the punkah, which gives the requisite flick."

THE ELECTRIC FLASH SIGNS.

Words and Sentences Changed by a New Mechanical Device, Used Both Day and Night.

Various kinds of signs have been invented to attract attention of the passing public. Electric flash signs that will spell out a name or a short sentence have proven to be the best sort of street advertising, says Popular Mechanics. These signs have the one disadvantage of being used only at night. Herewith is illustrated a machine that may be constructed with any number of changes in spelling-out of words and used as a sign for both day and night.

The mechanism is run by a small electric motor. Cams are fixed to a shaft in the lower part of the sign, and these cams operate levers which in turn operate hinged doors, which are carried on the levers to the front.

While one set of levers, carrying hinged doors, are going forward, another set are returning, thus changing the letters stenciled on the hinged doors. This makes an appearing and disappearing action that does not fail to attract attention.

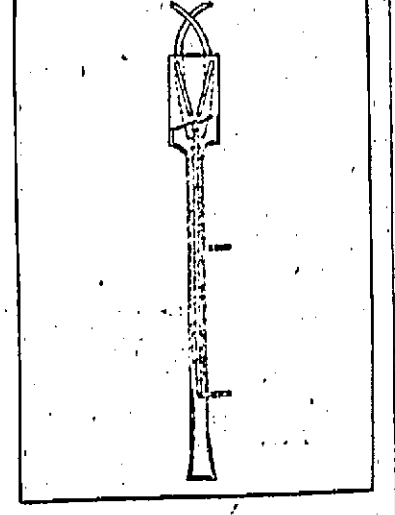

Competent engineers estimate that there is 2,000,000 horse-power which could be easily developed from water-power in this country. This would save annually 225,000,000 tons of coal.

EASY TO CATCH PIGS

Device Grips Them by Leg and Holds Them Fast.

Under ordinary circumstances a pig is one of the hardest things on earth to catch, but with the device invented by an Illinois man even a greased pig would stand no chance. Nor are porkers the only elusive objects for which the contrivance is useful; chickens, ducks and other denizens of the barnyard can be easily captured with it. The device consists of a long staff terminating in crossed fingers. These fingers are operated by a shift that runs through the body of the staff and causes them to open. A strong spring closes the fingers over the leg of the fugitive as soon as pressure from the handles is removed. The user pushes the fingers open, jams his foot on his head and charges on his prey. If he is a good runner and long-winded and quick at dodging about he may be able to get near enough to the object of his chase to seize it. The only difficulty is in getting close to the quarry. Once that is done, the rest is easy.

CHICKENS CANNOT ESCAPE IT.

Moroccan Fata Tape.

Official correspondence in Morocco is couched in a very flowery and flamboyant style. It is interspersed with a variety of meaningless adulatory phrases that tend to confound the real meaning of the epistle. For example, an order to the minister of finance to contract a loan begins thus: "In our present letter (God increase his power and make the glorious sun and his moon glitter in the firmament of his felicity, we have authorized our incorruptible servant (here follows name), to contract in the name and behoof of the treasury (heaven fill it), a loan of ——" etc.

Considering that the "incorruptible servant" is fleecing as much as he possibly can from the treasury it is certainly necessary to pray that "heaven fill it."

Warns Against Early Cup of Tea.
The Lancet wants to sign one more death warrant. This time it is the early morning cup of tea that is in disfavor. It is admitted that this institution is a source of comfort and refreshment to a good many persons when the mental and physical faculties are in a more or less lethargic state, and that being so, the Lancet is probably quite right in asserting that "it is superfluous for physiology and chemistry to preach that the practice may be beset with troubles connected more or less with the gastric machine."—New York Tribune.

He had called on a lawyer, who advised to give opinions free of charge, and when told to state his case he said:

"Of course you have seen the opinions of the judges on the betting at the race tracks. If a man bets and the bookmaker records it that is betting and can be punished under the law; if a man simply says he'll bet so much on a certain horse, he can't be held in law. Do I state the matter as you understand it?"

"I believe you are correct."

"But if this principle applies to betting, why not to other things? For instance, if I asked a girl to marry me and follow it up with a letter, that's recording it, and I don't marry her. If there's no one around when I pop the question and it isn't recorded, then it's no offer under the law, is it?"

"But the cases are slightly different," replied the lawyer. "You can't apply the same principle to a horse and a girl, or to a bet on a race and a proposal of marriage. You will have to stand by your promise or buy the girl off. Five dollars, please."

"For your opinion? Why, you advertise to give opinions free."

"My dear sir, this is another such case as you put to me. I gave you my opinion when I said that there was a difference between a horse and a girl. When I said you would have to toe the mark or jump the country that was counsel, and five dollars is a very low fee."

"I do."

"And he must confide in the shipper?"

"He does."

"And the shipper in the grower?"

"Yes; it runs back that far."

"And the man who buys here confides in you?"

"He does."

"So that it is a matter of confidence from start to finish. You wouldn't say with the college man that confidence was being undermined and destroyed, would you?"

"No, sir. That is, I wouldn't under existing circumstances, but I might under others."

"And those others?"

"Why, if any of us, from shipper to consumer, ever by any sort of accident, found a ripe melon in the lot, our confidence in human nature would go up like a puff of smoke!"

PRESIDENT TAFT OPPOSES TAX

WOULD LET THE STATES DECIDE ON AN INCOME LAW.

MAY AMEND CONSTITUTION

Opponents of Cummins-Bailey Proposals Hope to Substitute Tax on Corporations for their Plan—Stone Would Free the Philippines.

Washington, June 15.—President Taft and the opponents of an income tax have decided upon a plan of battle to circumvent the adoption of such a measure by congress. It will be fully outlined when the question comes up for settlement Friday.

Already the opponents express confidence in their ability to substitute for the income tax amendment a provision for a tax on net earnings of corporations, coupled with a provision for the submission to the legislatures of the several states a constitutional amendment giving congress the power to lay or collect direct taxes on incomes.

For several days it has been recognized by the opponents of the income tax question that the only way they could make certain the defeat of the proposition would be to offer something in its stead which would be acceptable to the country.

Taft Opposes Income Tax.

Taxes on net earnings of corporations, gross receipts of corporations, dividends of corporations and other forms of corporation taxes were brought forward one after another, only to meet rejection from advocates of the income tax. It became known that President Taft disagreed with the supporters of a tax on incomes and would lend the administration's influence to bring about their defeat. But the income tax faction, numbering all of the Democratic senators and progressive Republicans, variously estimated at from twelve to nineteen, have been keeping up a bold front, refusing to be diverted from their purpose by the suggestion of different forms of corporation tax.

Early in the present session Senator Brown of Nebraska, a progressive Republican, introduced an amendment providing for the submission of the income tax question to the several states as an amendment to the constitution. After the several propositions providing for taxes upon corporations had been rejected, the Brown amendment was seized upon as the basis for a compromise. Several progressive Republicans, notably Senators Brown, Jones and Bourne, have been called to the White House and President Taft has discussed with them the question of submitting a constitutional amendment to the states.

Progressives Are Willing.

It is understood at the capitol that the progressive Republicans have expressed themselves as willing to support an amendment providing for a tax of two per cent. on the undistributed net earnings of corporations, available for dividend purposes, if an amendment is adopted submitting to the states the question of adopting an amendment to the constitution giving to congress the right to collect direct taxes on incomes.

Senator Aldrich was at the White House, the guest of President Taft at luncheon. They discussed this proposition at great length and the chairman of the finance committee agreed with the president that such a plan would be wise. It is understood that the president should not again be submitted to the supreme court, but at the same time he takes the position, it is said, that congress should be given the power to levy taxes on incomes.

Every effort will be made by Senators Borah, Cummins and Bailey and their followers among progressive Republicans and Democratic senators to get a direct vote in the senate next Friday on the income tax amendment. A conference on that subject was attended by Senators Cummins, Borah, La Follette, Bailey and Clay.

Senators Talk on Sugar.

Sugar was the stirring subject before the senate yesterday. It was brought to the front in connection with the consideration of the finance committee's substitute for the house provision of the tariff bill regulating the admission of Philippine articles into the United States and it continued to receive practically the undivided attention of the senate throughout the day.

The only vote taken during the day session was on an amendment by Senator Brewster admitting sugar into the Philippines free of duty. It was lost 11 to 49.

Senator Stone of Missouri gave notice that he would soon offer an amendment declaring for the independence of the Philippine islands within 15 years.

PARTIAL VICTORY WON FOR GOULD

MILLIONAIRE NOT GUILTY OF CRUELTY AND NON-SUPPORT.

HIS WIFE'S SUIT MAY FAIL

Court Declares That Abandonment Is Only Issue on Which Separation Case Will Be Decided—Photograph Makes Her Blush.

New York, June 15.—Following the ruling of Justice Dowling that abandonment is the sole issue on which he will decide the separation suit against Howard Gould, predictions are freely made to-day that the millionaire's wife is doomed to defeat.

This ruling was made in the supreme court by Justice Dowling, after counsel for Mrs. Gould had rested the case for the plaintiff. This sweeps away several phases of the case—namely cruelty and non-support, and is a partial victory for Howard Gould. Concerning charges of abandonment, the court held that this too might not stand unless the plaintiff was able to show that Howard Gould's stipulations for reconciliation with his wife were unreasonable. This phase of the case was argued to-day.

George Gould on Stand.

Developments in the case were perhaps the most interesting in the trial. George Gould, a brother of the defendant, testified and Mrs. Gould was excused from the stand after three days of searching cross-examination.

After the case for the plaintiff was rested, Dolanecy Nicoll, for the husband, made the usual motion to dismiss the suit on the ground that the plaintiff had failed to make out a case. "There have been no evidences of cruelty," he argued. "One of the allegations is that the plaintiff was surrounded by spies. Nothing has been adduced to prove it. Then there is the Hawley incident. Nothing in that bears out the charge of cruelty."

During the foregoing argument Mrs. Gould became faint, left the courtroom and did not return. Then her counsel, Clarence Shearn, began argument against the motion of the defense to dismiss. "It is cruelty," he affirmed, "for a husband, without justification, to accuse his wife of being a bad character or to entertain against her, without cause, reflections against her honor."

Whatever bearing the events of the day will have on the ultimate decision in the case, honors were about even in the verbal battle between the cross-examiner and Mrs. Gould. Both sprang surprises.

Photograph Causes Blush.

The lawyer's most pertinent and apparently embarrassing thrust was the exhibition of a faded, old-fashioned photograph of a young woman sitting on a white horse, with the white canvas of a circus tent in the background. Mrs. Gould turned a dull red as it was shown, but she would not identify the photograph as one of herself, nor would she swear that it was not. She thought it was "hardly fat enough for me."

This picture was introduced to show if possible Mrs. Gould's former association with Buffalo Bill's show.

In retaliation for the picture incident, Mrs. Gould made one cutting retort to her inquisitor. Mr. Nicoll had been asking the witness about her gowns, how many she wore, how often she wore them and what became of them.

Hot Shot for Lawyer.

"They were given away," Mrs. Gould testified. "One of them," she shot in, "was given to your own sister, who is on the stand. I have aided many poor girls to get stage engagements by equipping them with my discarded gowns."

"Did it become her?" was Mr. Nicoll's only rejoinder.

As was the case Friday, a good part of today was taken up in questioning Mrs. Gould concerning her lavish expenditures. How many gowns to wear a day, how long it took to dress and the declaration that it was "very bad taste" to wear a gown twice, were among the interesting fashion hints in the testimony.

George Gould testified that he had caused an investigation to be made in regard to the alleged former marriage of his brother Howard's wife. He could not recall the date within one year of his brother's marriage. His father's estate, he said, had never been formally divided among the children, but it was valued approximately at $80,000,000. Howard Gould was entitled to one-sixth of the estate under the will. In January, 1906, Mr. Gould testified, Howard's income was about $770,000 a year and had not varied much.

Howard Gould followed his brother on the witness stand. He said he considered his property outside of the Jay Gould estate worth $5,000,000 or $10,000,000. This was independent of the income left him by his father.

ANSWER HIGHEST COURT.
John F. Shipp, former sheriff, from whose jail a mob took and put to death a negro prisoner who was awaiting decision of his fate by appellate tribunal.

Washington, D. C.—A unique case of contempt of the United States supreme court was postponed when County Sheriff John F. Shipp, Deputy Sheriff Jeremiah Gibson of Hamilton county, Chattanooga, Tenn., and several residents of the community had a conference.
It is alleged that the sheriff connived at or participated in the lynching of

Ed. Johnson a negro, on March 19
1896, in Chattanooga.
Johnson had been convicted of criminal assault upon a white school girl and sentenced to death by the state court. The United States circuit court refused to grant a writ of habeas corpus, and on March 17, three days before the date for the execution, an application was made to Justice Harlan of the supreme court at Washington for an appeal from the order of the circuit court.

This was allowed and two days later an order was made by the supreme court directing that all proceedings against Johnson be stayed pending an appeal.

That night a mob surrounded the jail, seized the prisoner bound him and then took him to the county bridge over the Tennessee river about six blocks from the jail, and lynched him.
The first time Johnson was strung up the rope broke and he dropped to the ground. He was swung up a second time and shot. Others were fired and he again fell and 10 minutes later after members of the mob had exhausted their revolvers, he was dead.

That disregard of the stay of execution by the supreme court established a precedent, and immediately the federal government, spurred on by the court, took steps to punish the offenders.

A thorough investigation was made this department of justice and proceedings were instituted against the sheriff and 26 other men including several deputies. These proceedings were disallowed against all of them except Sheriff Shipp and Deputy Gibson and the four other men who it is stated were members of the lynching party.

The charge against the sheriff and his deputy was that they were in a conspiracy to permit the lynching of Johnson by making an effort properly to guard him, despite the fact that it was common knowledge in Chattanooga on the night in question that question that plans had been made to move against the jail, capture Johnson and execute him, in the face of the appeal granted by the supreme court.

When the six men were brought before the bar on June 1 to receive sentence the proceedings were the first of its kind, for while the court has punished for contempt in the past, it has never done so in a case like this.

EDITORIAL.

For our mutual benefit we maintain the quality of our goods. You may come into our store and buy a garment and be unable to judge its merits; but after you have worn it for some time you know to a cer-tainty whether or not we have dealt fairly with you. This store is here to stay. It buys many lines of goods under the market and marks its goods on a lower margin of profit than any other store in South-ern Wisconsin. Right now we are in the midst of some very special offer-ings. We invite your at-tention to the following:

Mrs. Housewife:

Do you know Bleached Flour is the most expensive for your use, because it contains less of the Gliadin of the Gluten and takes more yeast and sugar than it would to make the same amount of bread if you used MARVEL Unbleached Flour. And besides, the U. S. Gov't Food Commissioners have ruled that Bleached Flour is impure and that the manufacture and sale of it is to be stopped.

Surely you want your bread and pastry to be pure and wholesome. Then why wait—why not order, now, MARVEL Flour? It is made only from the highest grade wheat, in the good old fashioned, natural way, and contains all the nourishing and health-giving qualities of purest wheat. It costs no more than Bleached Flour and goes a great deal farther. When buying baker's bread remember what Uncle Sam's experts say—insist on its being made of MARVEL Natural Unbleached Flour.

Listman Mill Company, La Crosse, Wis.

The only large Flour Mill in the U. S. that has never sold Bleached Flour.

BENNISON & LANE WHOLESALE DISTRIBUTORS, Janesville, Wis.

has given the weeds a big start in the cornfields and farmers will have to get a move on themselves to subdue them before the hay crop requires their attention. Present indications are that the hay crop will be a big one.

A good delegation from here will attend the picnic at Evansville, Wednesday.
